

COPENHAGEN URBAN NETWORK

Copenhagen Urban Network gathers all parties of the building trade across industrial interests and works as a platform for exchange of knowledge, ideas and a higher understanding of existing challenges.

We ease working processes, take new initiatives, and promote common interests. The organization encourages initiatives spanning from architecture and workmanship to legislative issues that will lead to positive urban development and renovation of buildings in Copenhagen.

Members of the network meet at professional, social, and cultural events. Our members' expertise and our cooperation with other network organisations enable us to organise unique debates, excursions, and events where we get new experiences and share knowledge.

On study trips, we get access to foreign professionals placing Copenhagen in an international context. We organise about 15 to 20 annual meetings and events as well as one or two study trips a year.

The organization was established in 1995 by a wide group of people from the building and renovation industry. Since then, our number of members has increased steadily and today includes a wide range of building professionals.
